THE FORCE BILL DEAD. THE CLOTURE RESOLUTION LAID UPON THE SHELF.

THE REPUBLICAN CAMP SURPRISED.

Wolcott Moves to Take Up the Apportion ment Bill and Other Sensible Repub-licans Assist the Democrats.

WASHINGTON, January 25 .- [Special.]-The fight has ended, and the force bill has met the fate it so justly deserved.

Although the vice president stooped until his robes of office dragged in the dust, and Harrison exerted all the power of the administration, and like old Granny Hoar, staked his political all on it, the infamous thing has been thrown overboard and

Unless all signs be false, the force bill is dead beyond resurrection. Senator Gorman-that greatest of living democrats-did the work. No greater battle was ever planned; no grander victory ever won. It has been a fight against odds all the

GORMAN'S GREAT GENERALSHIP. There was but one possible way to victory. Gorman found that and with his united democratic forces he has won a glorious fight, and stands tonight the hero of the greatest parliamentary battle in the history of the world-the man who should be the next democratic nominee for presi-

PREPARING FOR THE TILT. a week Senator Gorman has been laying his plans for the final tilt. He knew just how every man stood, and he knew that should the force bill ever come to a direct vote it would pass by from two to three majority. The western silver republicans who have been aiding him in this fight, were of the same opinion. However, by a close canvass of the senate, Mr. Gorman found at the proper time if he moved to lay the bill aside to take up some other important measure, there was a chance

Mr. Aldrich had given it out that on tomorrow he would ask for and insist upon a vote on the cloture rule. Mr. Gorman decided to act first, and notifying all his men to be on hand at noon today, he was prepared for the fray. Every democrat in the city able to leave his room was on hand. Senator Colquitt, who has been ill for two months, got up and was driven to the capitol in a close carriage.

STANFORD'S ABSENCE. The republicans who were to act with the democrats were all on hand except Senator Stanford, of California, who was absent without a pair, and Senator Ingalls, of Kansas, who was, however, paired with a republican against the bill. Senator Morgan, of Alabama, had the floor, and was continuing his speech, commenced on Saturday, when, according to the prearranged programme which Gorman had mapped out, followed. WOLCOTT STARTS THE BALL.

Senator Wolcott, of Colorado, asked for the floor for a motion, and when the Alabamian yielded, he moved that the senate lay aside the pending resolution and proceed to the consideration of the apportionment bill. If a thousand bombs had ex ploded at once right in the sentate, there could not have been more consternation among the force bill republicans. It was totally unexpected by them, and they were so amazed that Aldrich jumped to his feet to raise a point of order so as to gain time for his men to recover.

CALLING THE ROLL.

The point was, of course, ruled out, when he moved to lay the motion on the table. Then the roll call was ordered. The republicans sent pages in all directions to summons absentees, and in less time than it takes to tell it, word had gone ail over the capitol that the senate was voting on the force bill. Every one rushed for the senate. The scene on the floor was one of the most intense excitement. Every senator was on his feet moving around nervously as the roll call proceeded The republicans were nervous from fear the democracs from anxiety. CAMERON VOTES RIGHT.

When Senator Cameron's name was reached and he voted "no," with the democrats, the democrats looked relieved slightly, and the republicans showed great nervousness. Hoar turned red, then white, and trembling all over with fear, rushed around the chamber like a chicken after its head had been wrung from its body. Then Jones, of Nevada, voted with the democrats; then Stewart and Teller, and Washburn and Wolcott.

The roll call being completed, Allison of Iowa, announced that he was paired with Senator Ingalls. This meant a tie if all the absent senators were paired, but in an instant it was announced that Senator Stanford was not paired. Aldrich insisted that he was, but Senator Stewart announced that were he present he would vote against the motion, and after a few moments parleying the vote was announced 34 to 35. The senate refused to table the motion and a mighty yell went up from the

HOAR VERY MUCH PUZZLED. Hoar turned very red and, looking fixedly at the floor, blushed and blushed and simply tore paper into fragments. Old Edmunds was, however, mad and he showed it by demanding that the vice president clear the galleries if there was any more applause.

The direct vote to take up the apport tionment bill was then taken and resulted in 35 yeas to 34 nays, and the vice president announced that the senate had decided to take up the apportionment bill. THE APPLAUSE OFFENDS THEM. Although the vice president had cautioned the galleries, they broke out in renewed applause and the democratic senators lost their dignity in ljoyousness and applauded vigorously with the audience.

The Hoar-Edmunds-Aldrich gang was as thoroughly a disgusted set as one could imagine. They lost no time in retiring in disorder to the cloakroom. Gorman was forced out into the democratic cloakroom by many of his colleagues after the fight was over, where he was simply overwhelmed with praises and congratulations.

ANNOUNCED TO THE HOUSE. Some one rushed over to the house with the news. The clerk of that body was calling the roll on some filibustering motion when Mr. Rogers rushed in and yelled:

"Mr. Speaker, I want to announce that the senate has just defeated the force bill." It came like a clap of thunder to every one in the house, but in an instant the democrats were yelling with joy, while Speaker Reed and the republicans seemed absolutely dazed. The democrats applauded for fully two minutes, throwing books and papers high towards the ceiling in joyous

INFORMING THE PRESIDENT. The news was telegraphed to the white house almost as soon as it had happened. It is said Harrison flew into a rage and telegraphed immediately to the republicans of the Kansas legislature to vote solidly against Ingalls and defeat him. The republicans of the house were just as mad as the president, and some twenty of them likewise signed a telegram to the republicans of the Kansas legislature to defeat Ingalls, even if they had to elect a

The house republicans, and particularly the Pennsylvania republicans, felt outraged at Cameron's vote, and have already telegraphed to Harrisburg to have the Pennsylvania legislature pass a resolution tomorrow condemning his course.

HAVE GIVEN UP THE FIGHT. The republicans have, however, given up the fight. Even old Hoar himself gave notice, late this afternoon, after he had slightly recovered from the shock, that he would call up the bankruptcy bill within a few days.

A western republican, who has always voted with Hoar, told me tonight that he, for one, was opposed to any other effort to bring the force bill before the senate. It had been defeated by a square vote, and he and a score of other republican senators would now insist that the senate occupy the remainder of the session with legitimate business that must be attended to. If this programme is carried out, and the chances are it will be, the democrats will assist in rushing business, and there will be no necessity for an extra ses-

The force bill is in its grave. Its many reputed fathers and advocates will soon find their political bodies buried by its

THE REPUBLICANS WERE SURPRISED.

It is an undeniable fact that Senator Aldrich and the republican senators were completely taken by surprise by the action of the senate today in laying aside the cloture resolution, and taking up the apportionment bill. There was no expectation on their part that any impertant vote would be reached today, and at east one republican senator, who was in the city, was told that he might safely leave the capitol to attend to some departmental business; consequently, he was not present when the decisively otes were taken, and it was with difficulty that a pair could be arranged for

WHAT MIGHT HAVE BERN. Mr. Stanford is the only republican recorded as absent and unpaired. His vote for the motion to table Senator Wolcott's motion to take up the apportionment bill would have deted the motion, as the resulting tie would have called for the casting of the vote of the vice president, without a doubt in favor of the continued consideration of the cloture rule. The same result would would have followed the arrangement of a pair by Stanford with a democratic senator.

WILL KEEP THEIR EYES OPEN

The future course of events, according to Mr. Aldrich, will depend largely upon Mr. Stanford, whose position in regard to the cloture rule, it is expected, will be definite ascertained as soon as he returns. Mr Aldrich says that if Stanford agrees to support the rule, he will ask the senate to resume its consideration immediately.

It is probable that the opposing forces in the senate will maintain the fullest possible ndance of all their members from this time forward, in order to be prepared to take advantage of any changes in the situation that accidental or other causes may bring about.

STANFORD TO BE CONSULTED. Just before the vote shelving the force bill was announced in the senate today, there was a dispute between Senators Aldrich and Stewart as to which way Senator Stanford would vote had he been here and which way he would have paired. Aldrich declared he would have voted against shelving the force bill, while Stewart announced that Stanford had told him he would support the motion. After the senate adjourned there was a question of veracity raised between these senators.

Aldrich said he would settle it by going to New York to see Stanford personally said he would do likewise, and both senators left on the same train tonight.

Should Stanford state that Aldrich was cor rect, and that he would have voted against laying aside the force bill and will vote to take it up again, then Aldrich and Hoan might make another effort to take up the bill.

But this action on Stanford's part will not be. Stewart must be right, for all of Stanford's past votes have been consistent with Stewart's announcement. Two weeks ago he roted to shelve the force bill and has since made many public statements that he would Stanford's absence today was undoubtedly premeditated. Neither the anti-force bill reublicans nor the democrats have any fear of his reconsidering. SENATOR COLQUITT'S ILLNESS. Senator Colquitt deserves credit for his ap-cearance in the senate today. Although he has pearance in the senate today. Although he has been ill for many weeks, he was carried to the senate chamber to vote against the force bill. He was, however, paired with Senator Dawes and his pair had been transferred to an absent republican. After all, he could not vote. His presence, however, counted just the same. It will probably be some time yet before Senator Colquitt is able to attend to his duties. His illness has resulted in his losing much flesh, and, indeed, he looked very pale and was so weak that he could barely stand today, E. W. B.

IS DAVIS A DUPE?

OR IS HE IN WITH THE GANG AT WASHINGTON ?

THE CONGO CROWD HAS CAUGHT HIM.

doney of the Atlanta Crowd Has Now All Gone Into the Treasury of the Congo Emigration Company.

WASHINGTON, January 26.—[Special.]— Orange Davis, the treasurer of the Atlanta negro exodusters, is here, looking after the oney he brought in and deposited with the 'United States and Congo Emigration and teamship Company" some time ago.

Davis's actions on this trip have demontrated that he is either one of the rascals of this company in league with the conspiracy formed to rob the poor, deluded, black wretches in Atlanta and other points of the outh, or else he has been hypnotized and robbed by the conspirators here.

It will be remembered that Davis brought $1,056 here in December. He deposited that in the Central National bank, giving a ship agent, as a deposit, and $556 to a negro ed O'Brien, the treasurer of the Congo company.

When THE CONSTITUTION exposed the scheme, last week, O'Brien wrote to Davis to come on at once and get the $500 deposited with Mr. Morse. Today Davis and O'Brien called on Mr. Morse, who gave the deposited check to Davis, who immediately turned it over to O'Brien. Thus O'Brien now has all the money, and the poor negroes in Atlanta will get nothing.

Orange Davis might have been given a portion of the swag, but the chances are that he will simply get a return ticket to Atlanta, while the Washington negroes and their white chief will hold another meeting, at their den, "Hell's Bottom," and divide the remainder of E. W. B. the booty.

Fisher Goes to Jail Again.

The application of Pendleton F. Fisher, the negro emigrant agent, for his release from jail on a writ of habeus corpus on the ground of illegal arrest and imprisonment, came up before Judge Newman, yesterday. Fisher was represented by Colonel Thomas. Judge Newman decided that the case did not properly belong to the United States court, and discharged the writ, remanding the pris-oner back to the custody of the sheriff. Fisher will have to look to the state for future action

AFTER INGALLS'S SCALP.

The Alliancemen Pledged to Vote Against Him-An Ex-Confederate Very Popular. TOPERA, Kan., January 25 .- Senator Ingalls was right when he remarked in his speech last night, that the battle was on. No truce was declared over Sunday. The Farmers' Alliance was busy all day, none going home, for every man was needed in the caucus, and each was on hand. The important action resulting was the decision to unseat two republicans and give the vacancies to alliance supporters. The cases were Reedy, alliance, against Boyer, republican, from Lyons county, and Maxwell, alliance, against Reed, republican, from Marion county.

Boyer has been declared elected by seven majority, and Reed and Maxwell tie.
The grounds for unseating is alleged fraud.
The programme is to do the unseating the first In a programme is to do the unseating the first thing at tomorrow's session and seat the contestants in time to give them a vote on the senatorial question. This action will increase the vote of the alliance on joint ballot to ninety-four and reduce the epublican vote to sixty-four. The alliance will then have thirty plurality over the republicans and a majority of twenty-one versal. over all. It requires eighty-three votes in joint

The alliancemen are confident they will elect an allianceman on the first ballot to succeed Senator Ingalls. No one dares to predict who he will be. Speaker Elder said to ay that by no possible means could Ingalls e re-elected. Ninety-one members had be re-elected. Ninety-one members had signed an agreement, he said, to vote to the last against Ingalls. It seemed to be the general opinion that W. A. Harris and John Willets have the lead W. A. Harrs and John Whilets have the lead over other alliance candidates. Harris is an ex-confederate and served through the war on General Lee's staff. This fact has prejudiced some eighteen or twenty old soldiers against him. Were it not for that it is generally believed that he could win hands down. Willets stock is locking an today. His boom is a sort stock is looking up today. His boom is a sort of undercurrent affair. The other candidates of undercurrent affair. The other candidates have about held their own.

All was activity at Ingalls's headquarters tovolunteered in his service. He held numer-ous conferences with them today. They say Ingalls will succeed himself. The alliance, they say, will be unable to agree upon a can-didate and enough votes will finally go to In-galls to elect him.

PETITIONS FROM THE GRAND ARMY. It is said petitions will be read in the hous from every Grand Army post in Kansas asking for the re-election of Ingalls. These petitions will not come from the posts themselves, but from eading men in each post. Mr. Ingalls's organiza ation is in the hands of five of the shrewdest men that ever | went into a contest.

Mr. Livingston, president of the New York alliance, is here using his influence with the soldler element for Ingalls. He shows letters said to be from southern alliancemen, in which they state that when the alliance comes into power they will cut off the pensions of old soldiers. This is having an influence, nomentarily, at least ence, momentarily, at least.
ALLIANCEMEN VERY RETICENT.

The alliance is preserving the strictest secrecy The alliance is preserving the strictest secrecy, and it is difficult to get anything out of them. From appearances it would seem that Willetts is the most promising one among their number for the senatorship, but they will not talk about him. Harris, of Leavenworth, is doubtless the ablest man of the alliance, and represents every principle of the combination, but he is an ex-confederate and it is doubtful if the large soldier contingent would support him for that reason. Congressman Simpson is ruled out from the contest by the alliancemen on the ground that no member elected to congress shall be eligible to the United States senate.

CAMERON ON THE STAND.

The Senator Acknowledges That He Bough Silver and Had Nothing to Conceal.

WASHINGTON, January 26.-In the silver poor nvestigation today Chairman Dingley laid befor investigation today Chairman Dingley laid before the committee a letter dated January 19th, from James H. Owenby to W. B. Stevens, correspondent of The St. Louis Globe-Democrat, in which Owenby expresses a willingness to appear the committee and testify without reservant vided he has a satisfactory guarantee that he sha be allowed to compel the attendance of such per sons and papers as he shall name, and provide also that he shall have the right to take t into court. [The letter was published Saturand Sunday in different parts of the country.] and sunday in different parts of the country.]
It was then explained that when Dockery had asked Stevens to withhold the letter the other day he did not mean that it should be withheld from the committee, but from the public.
Senator Cameron, of Pennsylvania, took the witness stand. Mr. Dingley suggested to the senator that, perhaps, he had seen the testimony of Vest and Littler before the committee.

The senator replied that he had no concealment no knowledge of any other senator or republican or government official having any interest in the purchase of silver. He made no concealment of having purchased silver. That was the only interest he had in silver during the year. Never knew Owenby, and knew nothing about the existence of a silver pool, and did not believe any one else did.

To Mr. Rewell, witness said there had been no talk between him and other senators about the organization of a silver pool, and to Mr. Oates he said that no member of the nonse or senate has ever asked him to exert his influence to prevent the present investigation, or to get Mr. Dockery to withhold his resolution asking for it.

In response to further questions, Senator Cameron said Senator Vest was mistaken in his testimony when he said that he (Cameron) bought silver after the bill had passed the senate. timony when he said that he (Cameron) bought silver after the bill had passed the senate.

R. D. Bogart, correspondent of The Chicago Evening Post, was questioned relative to statements made by him in dispatches to his paper, intimating that there were persons who would not object to the present investigation being dropped, and that Representative Flower, of New York, was in the silver pool, etc.

Represent investigation being dropped, and that Representative Flower, of New York, was in the silver pool, etc.

In regard to the first, he said he was reporting what was commonly said among Chicago correspondents, and some other statements were intended as mere pleasantries.

Regarding the statement that Mr. Flower had bought silver at 97 cents, witness said that his impression was that he had heard it from one Edward Curtis, who was an employe of the St. Louis silver commission. He had no personal knowledge of the matter.

E. G. Dunnell, correspondent of The New York Times, was asked concerning a dispatch sent to The Times recently, the purport of which was that that gentleman had overheard a conversation between Messrs. Payne and Dingley, members of the committee, to the effect that if they had known that revelations with regard to Senator Cameron would be made, they would have been reluctant to enter into this investigation.

Mr. Dunnell said he believed that the man who gave him the information spoke the truth.

gave him the information spoke the truth.
Chairman Dingley said that inasmuch as this was not a particle of foundation for it, he would ask Mr. Dunnell to give the name of his informant. Mr. Dunnell replied that he would, after consulting with him and getting his consent. Witness also said, in reply to other questions, that he had no personal knowledge of a sliver pool. Representative Flower then took the stand, and said he never bought a dollar's worth of sliver in his life, nor any certificates representing sliver.

IRON AND STEEL PRODUCTION. Bulletin of the American Iron and Steel

PHILADELPHIA, January 26.—The following is from the bulletin of the American Iron and Stee Association: "The American Iron and Steel Asso clation has received from manufacturers com plete returns of the production of pig iron in the United States in 1890, and also complete returns of stocks of unsold pig iron in the hands of makers or their agents at the close of the war The total production of pig iron in 1800 was 10,307,928 net tons of 2,000 pounds, or 202,703 gross tons of 2,240 pounds, against 7,603,642 gross tons in 1889—an increase of 1,569,661 gross tons or over 21 per cent production in 1889, was over 17 per cent greater than that of 1888. The joint increase in the last two years has, therefore, been over 38 per cent. Our production in 1890 was about 1,200,000 gross tons larger than that of Great Britain in 1883, which was its year of greatest production. Our production of pi iron in 1890 was larger for the first time than the of greatest production. Our production of pigiron in 1890 was larger for the first time than that of our European rival. Our production of pigiron in the first half of 1890 was 4,560,513 gross tons, and in the second half of 1890 it was 4,562,190 gross tons—an increase of 81,677 tons in the second half. The increase in the second half would have been been much larger, but for the blowing out of many furnaces in December, caused by the strike of Alabama coal miners and by financial stringency.

The check in production which occurred in December has been continued since the beginning of the new year. The number of furnaces in blast on the 30th of June, 1890 was 356 and on the 31st of December the number in blast was 311. Since the list of January at least capty more furnaces have blown out. The increased production in 1890 over 1889 was well distributed throughout the leading pig iron producing states, although the increase in Pennsylvania was exceptionally large, amounting to 763,927 net tons. The next largest increase was in Hillinois, with 184,204 net tons, followed by Ohio with 173,598 tons, Miaryland with 131,712 tons, Alabama with 123,515 tons, Wisconsin with 87,603 tons, Virginia with 76,556 tons, Michigan with 44,105 tons, West Virginia with 27,070 tons, Colorado with 2,9910 tons and Missouri with 14,360 tons. Some other states made small increases in their productions.

The productions of Maine, Massachusetts and Connecticut declined, and Washington made no pig iron in 1890. The production of pig iron in Alabama in 1890 shows a very much smaller increase, both absolutely and relatively, than in either of the two preceding years. Tennessee, Kentucky, Georgia and North Carolina made only nominal progress in 1890, but Maryland, Virginia and West Virginia contributed handsomely to the grand total of 1,953,459 net tons for the southern states in 1890, against 1,566,702 net tons in 1890-agains 1,566,702 net

Stocks of pig iron which were unsold in the hands of makers and their agents on the 31st of December last, and which were not intended for the consumption of manufacturers, amounted to 681,832 net tons, or 698,321 gross tons, against 389,241 net tons on the 30th of June last, 277,401 tons on the 30th of June last, 277,401 tons on the 30th of June, 1889. In addition to these unsold stocks at the close of 1890, there were at that date in storage warrant yards 59,289 net tons, making a total of warrant yards 59,289 net tons, making a total 741,281 net tons of pig iron then on the market.

THE GREAT STORM.

SNOW AND SLEET BREAK DOWN THE ELECTRIC WIRES.

AND NEW YORK IS IN DARKNESS.

set in at 11 o'clock last night and continued until noon today was the severest of the season thus far. About six inches of snow fell and it was of a clinging kind that fastened itself to everything it touched, loading trees until they were shorn of their branches or fell prostrate with their trunks snapped off as though they had been mere twigs, and clinging under the pressure and broke in all directions, or until the poles on which they were strung breaking under the enormous weight fell across the streets and against houses, blocking all traffic on the former and threatening death and destruction to the latter and their in-

At daylight this morning the work of destruction had commenced and it continue until the snowfall ceased at noon, when wrecks of trees and telegraph poles were to be found on every street, while irregular festoons of wire were hanging on every hand and detached lengths were strung on every sidewalk.

THE DAMAGE IS GREAT.

No such work of devastation has been known since the great blizzard of March, 1886, and it is a question if that memorable storm was nore serious in its effects upon telegraph pole and wires of the city. Early in the morning telegraphic and tele-phonic connections were broken and while the phonic connections were broken and while the snow did not offer a bar to railroad traffic, the prostrate poles and fallen wires prevented running cars on many streets and even elevated railroad trains were compelled to move cautiously and were often brought to a stop by wires that had fallen across the tracks.

The police and fire departments were especial sufferers. All wire connections between the various police attributes and the central transmitted transmitted the central transmitted trans tween the various police stations and the centra office were broken and recourse was had to messengers. The fire department's circuit were generally broken, and as no alarms could be sent out, excepting on a very few circuits patrols of firemen were established throughout the city. Men were sent to repair damages a once and the two most important of city departments will soon have their telegraph services rectord.

THE CITY IN DARKNESS.

The same may be said of the telegraph, tel ephone and electrical light companies, all of which had their full effective force engaged all day. Many quarters of the city wer wrapped in Cimmerian darkness this evening but for the fortunate circumstance that the moon is nearly full and supplies, in part, the lack of electric lights, none of which were working in any portion of the city excepting in some sections in the Harlem district.

In some sections in the Hariem district.

Early this morning Acting Superintendent of Police Byrnes issued a general order calling upon the police to use extraordinary vigilance during the night, as the criminal class might be disposed to take advantage of the disastrous condition of affairs and commit depredations against life and property. SEVERAL ACCIDENTS REPORTED. Up to this writing no intelligence has been received of any disastrous fires or overt acts. A partial list only can be given of the accidents caused by the storm. About 9 o'clock this morning seven huge telegraph poles on Fourth avenue, between One Hundred and Twenty-first and One Hundred and Twentyfifth streets, were broken off close to the ground, falling with a great crash into a cut of the New York Central railroad, effectually blocking the track. Fortunately no train was passing at the time, but the train for Peeks-kill which left the Grand Central depot at 9 o'clock, had a narrow escape, as it came thundering out of Rookville tunnel just as the accident occurred and was stopped by a signal It was nearly two hours before the wreckage

SHOT BY A NEGRO.

The Lively Experience of a Gentleman at Opelika. OPELIKA, Ala., January 26.—[Special.]—, Last night Mr. Will Mangum, son of Rev. J. F. Mangum, was visiting some young ladies at Dr. A. N. Lightfoot's, on Washington street. He went home about 10:30 o'clock, and as he started down the steps he saw a negro man just about grown run out of the front gate and down the sidewalk.

For some time past several of our citizens have heard some one about their residences about bed time, turning the blinds, evidently a "Peeping Tom" apparantly attempting to see the family retire. Mr. Mangum at once decided this was the object of the negro, and thinking he would probably return went home, a short distance, remained about ten minutes, took his father's walking stick and started to Dr. Lightfoot's. He went in the gate, walked around the corner of the house and met the negro, who started towards him. Mangum struck him across the head with the cane and the negro immediately jerked out a pistol and fired at and narrowly missed him. Mangum was unarmed and jumped on the negro, who fired a second shot and struck him in the left arm at the wrist, the ball going through the arm. Mangum finally succeeded in taking the pistol. The negro ran, jumped the fence and escaped. As he did so Mangum fired at him twice, but without effect. He did not recognize the negro and there is no clue to the miscreant. The people here are naturally indignant and he will receive the full penalty of the law if

PARNELL AT WATERFORD.

He Addresses a Very Large Crowd on the WATERFORD, January 26.—Parnell today addressed, in this city, the largest meeting that has assembled to hear him during his present campaign. On his arrival he was received by a committee of citizens, headed by the mayor, who ex-tended to him a cordial welcome. In his speech Parnell said that Hartlepool had declared entirely for him in the recent election, and that it depended upon Irishmen themselves what kind of home rule they obtain. He admitted that he was home rule they obtain. He admitted that he was at fault in being amiable with Mr. Gladstone at Hawarden, that he promised that he would not repeat the mistake. He had never known anything to be got out of negotiations with Mr. Gladstone, and he was glad they had been broken off. After the meeting Mr. Farnell was presented an address at the town hall by the town corporation, board of poor law guardians, trade societies, and other bodies. A body of McCarthyties held counter demonstrations at Mullinava, where Messrs. Chance and Sheedy. members of parliament, delivered addresses. There was considerable cheering for Parnell.

When speaking at the town hall, in acknowledgement of the address presented him there, Mr. Parnell declared, that but for the seceders in the Irish parliamentary party, the government would have been defeated by a large majority on Friday in the house of commons on Mr. Channing's motion for the relief of overworked railway employes. Addressing a crowd this evening from the balcony of his hotel, Mr. Parnell said he had forced Justin McCarthy "to open his war chest" and devote £8,000 to the relief of his evicted tenants. During the evening a torchight procession paraded the city in honor of Parnell.

THE MORRIS WILL CASE SETTLED After Long Litigation a Famous Case Is at an End. CHARLOTTE, N. C., January 26 .- [Special.]-The Morris will case at Reidsville which has attr much attention both far and near, was finally set

The readers of THE CONSTITUTION will remember that at the spring term of court in tookingham county, Mrs. Morris was tried and acquitted of the murder of her husband. Since that time a suit has been pending, instigated by the heirs of Mr. Morris, they claiming that the will was made under certain conditions, and one of those conditions was that she should be a wife to him. It was claimed by the Morris heirs that she did all in her power to make his life unhappy, and from the fact that there was sufficient evidence to bind her over to court in a $5,000 bond for the murder of her husband was enough, to say the least of it, that she was not entitled to his property.

Mr. Morris's will names no other heir to his property save his wife, and in the will was included an insurance policy in the Mutual Benefit Association, of Newark, N. J. for $5,000. The company refused to pay said policy, because they claimed that Mr. Morris had made a false statement to get the insurance. However, they compromised the debt and gave the Morris estate $1,000.

This ends one of the most sensational cases that has ever occurred in North Carolina. The readers of THE CONSTITUTION will remember

THE FAMOUS MOONSHINER IS ONCE MORE BEHIND THE BARS.

His Last Ride from His Old Home to Ala-Romance-His Marriage.

JONESBORO, Ga., January 26 .- [Special.]-"Dred" Cook, Clayton county's noted moonshiner and burglar, is again in trouble. This time he is languishing in jail at Summerville, Ala., awaiting the arrival of Sheriff Hutcheson with the necessary papers to transfer him to this county on a charge of burglary.

It seems that Cook had located in Alabama since his release from a number of charges against him in this county last year, and a few days ago came back for a visit to his old home and friends. While here he evidently could ot resist the temptation to ply his old trade, and proceeded to burglarize several residences in the vicinity of Poplar Springs, in the northern part of this county, and secured from them quite a load of various articles. Mr. Dick Jones suffered the loss of two breech-loading shotguns and Mr. Bud Nolan lost a barrel of flour, a cheese and numerous small articles, and other parties in the neighborhood lost

From all accounts his return trip to Alabama was a round of exciting exploits and romantic adventures. At Campbellton he attempted to burglarize a house, but failed, after breaking off a skeleton key in the door lock. He then broke the lock on the ferryboat and succeeded in carrying over his team and wagon full of stolen goods without the usual

When he reached the home of Mr. John Dukes, near Villa Rica, a new and romantic idea struck him which was promptly consummated. He succeeded in persuading the daughter of Mr. Dukes to become his life partner, and they were married then and there, and proceeded thence to his home near Summerville. Ala. The authorities there having been notified, arrested him on arrival, and are holding him until the officer of this town goes to bring him back.

Cook is the same man who, for several years ran an illicit distillery in a cave under a milldam, in the northern part of the county, where he was successful in evading the officers of Uncle Sam, until about two years ago, when he was arrested and fined.

Sheriff Hutchison leaves tomorrow for Alabama with requisition papers to bring him ere, where he will doubtless pay dearly for his deviltry.

OHIOANS MAKING INVESTMENTS.

This is generally conceded to be one of the best adapted and located farms for all kinds of fruit in the state. It was through the able efforts of Captian J. B. James that the sale was made to the parties, who propose to make it eclipse anything of the kind in the south. They will erect new houses, new depot, a small plant of water works, a canning factory, and a large, wellarranged wine cellar. In fact, if money judiciously expended will do it, the proprietors will make this one of the most noted fruit farms and vineyards in this country. They have ample water, as good and rapid shipping facilities as they could wish, and all the money necessary to foster such an enterprise. LIQUOR LAW IN ALABAMA. The Senate Passes the Bill Regulating Its Sale. MONTGOMERY, Ala., January 26.-[Special.] oill regulating the granting of license to sell liquor passed the senate today after a heated diswhich will create a sensation among whisky men in the state.

The bill was introduced by Senator Cowan, of Clarke, chairman of the senate temperance com mittee, in response to the memorial of the late Baptist state convention, and requires the applicant for license to present a petition to the probate judge of the county, signed by a majority of householders, who are freeholders, in the precinct, town or ward of city in which petition has to be published four weeks, with names appended, at the expense of the applicant.

It also provides that no party shall have license

It also provides that no party shall have license who has been proven to the satisfaction of the probate judge to have been guilty of violating any prohibition statutes in this state.

It also provides that no whisky shall be sold outside of incorporated towns.

The bill is quite sweeping in its nature and practically excludes the sale of liquor in many cities in the state. Culbert, Lawrence and Marengo counties were exempted from the provisions of the bill.

The bill passed the senate by a vote of 19 to 4.

Lines of sorrow marke his face and ran through his features as numerous as the rivers in central Africa. A number of men were sitting around him, and they had been telling stories of the "pistol which is not loaded," and its fatality.
The white-haired man said in a plaintive voice: "I have a story to tell. I returned home one day from my place of business. Everything had gone my way that day, among the things a good many dollars, and I felt unusually gay and skittish. I told my wife of my good fortune and asked her to get me a match. We were standing by a dressing case and when she refused I opened a drawer and drew forth a pistol which I knew was not loaded, as I had examined it the night before. Leveling the pistol straight at her heart—poor woman, she's dead now—I playfully threatened to shoot her. There was a look of trusting, confident love in her eyes—shall I forget that!—as she dared me. I placed my hand on the trigger, and pulled it. I closed my eyes, afraid to open them. On! It was closed my eyes, arrand to your awful.

"After a time, it seemed hours, I opened my eyes and put the pistol back."

"But your wife—was she killed instantly?" eagerly asked three listeners.

"N-o-o."
A lingering, painful death?" sympathetically they asked.
"No; as I said, the pistol was not loaded. My wife was unburt, of course,"
"But you said she was dead?"
"Yes, she died two years ago, of old age."
"And why did you tell this story?"
"To show you there are times when the pistol is really not loaded. There are exceptions to all rules, you know. This is the one exception to the seven instances you gentlemen have recited,"

Quay's Bayonet Bill

From The Philadelphia Times.
Senator Quay's new and improved federal election bill is apparently designed to make any sort of force legislation impossible by making its true character plain to everyone. Quay's bill does not differ essentially from the Hoar bill, except that it goes straight to the mark, and instead of disguising the bayonets it presents them boldly. When it is necessary to overthrow the laws and count in a congress, Senator Quay proposes that the president shall take the full responsibility and do it in the regulation way. He is to suspend the habeas corpus and call out the army.

There can be no question that Qnay's bill is an improvement upon Hoar's, in so far as it expresess its purpose more honestly and in a way that the country cannot fall to understand. It need not be supposed that Quay expects this bill or any likely to pass. He simply wants his party to know what a force policy really means.

And Indiana, Too. INDIANAPOLIS, January 26 .- The house today, after a long and vigorous debate, adopted the fol-owing resolutions by a strict party vote: Whereas, A bill has been introduced in this general assembly providing for an appropriation of $200,000 to make a display of industries and resources of this state at the world's fair, to be held at Chicago, in 1893;

at the world's fair, to be held at Chicago, In 1893; and.

Whereas, The measure now pending in the United States senate, known as the force bill, is a revolutionary measure, which, if it passes the senate and becomes a law, will involve the people of the southern states in a race war; will prostrate the industries of the many states of the union; will disrupt the minimable, commercial and social relations existing between the north and south. Whereas, If said measure shall become a law, and such conditions thereby brought about, the world's fair will become a sectional instead of a national affair; will fail to adequately exhibit and display the magnitude and variety of our country's resources; will fail short of the purposes for which it was contemplated, and will bring stain and reproach upon our whole country;

And whereas. It is the sense of this general as-

and will bring stain and repreach upon our whole country;
And whereas, It is the sense of this general assembly that no appropriation should be made by the state of Indiana to exhibit her resources at such fair, or in any manner encourage the same, unless it can be made, in fact as well as in name, a world's fair, and can exhibit the magnitude and variety of our whole country's resources and advancement; therefore,
Rosolved, By the house of representatives, senate concurring, that no further consideration of said appropriation bill be had till the senate has finally disposed of the said force bill, that this assembly may know what is to be the character of the exhibition of said world's fair.

Democratic members of the senate concurred in the resolution and decided to vote for them solidly tomorrow.

His Honeymoon Was a Sad One

From The Oglethorpe, Ga., Echo. Mr. Henry Hurt arrived last Tuesday night with his bride. It was quite a sad time for him. Just to think about the same time of his marriage, the burial of his father was going on. He did not get the news, as the sickness of his father was so short a time. Though he has such a sad bereavement to front him now, we only wish him and his bride such future happiness that they may always be proud of.

ABOUT THE CAPITOL.

THE RAILROAD COMMISSION HAS AN IMPORTANT MEETING TODAY.

Points About the Military Encampment Agricultural Meeting.

The office of the state school commissione was closed yesterday on account of the death of Miss May Bradwell, daughter of Commissioner Bradwell.

About the Encampment. The encampment will begin about July

The troops will not be ordered in all at once, but by regiments. About 600 men will be in camp at one time.

As there are 2,962 white troops and 1,050 colored, that will make about seven weeks First, the white troops will be in camp five weeks. The colored troops will then be in camp two weeks longer. Another point of interest about the encamp-ment is this—that the matter of going into camp is not left optional with the var nands. They are ordered in, and failure to report at the time required is to be treated as asubordination, and will result in the disbandment of the company.

Railroad Commission. The railroad commission will have an important meeting today. The two most imporant cases are of the Sawmill Association for a reduction of the rate on lumber, and of the Sumter county alliance for a reduction on fertilizer rates from Savannah, so that Americus will have the same rate per ton per mile that Albany has now.

State Agricultural Society. Colonel J. O. Waddell was a prominent visitor at the capitol yesterday. He says the programme for the convention which meets at Savannah on the 11th is now about com-

Senator Gordon is expected to respond to the address of welcome.

There will be addresses by Hon. R. T.

Nesbitt, commissioner of agriculture; Colonel R. J. Redding, director of the experiment station; Dr. J. B. Hunnicutt, the assistant commissioner of agriculture; Mr. James Barrett, of Augusta; State School Commissioner Bradwell; Major W. L. Glessner, of Americus, and Mr. H. W. Newman, of Canton. Mr. Barrett takes for his subjects, "The Education of Farmers' Boys." Commissioner Bradwell speaks on "More Schools and Better Ones." Major Glessner speaks on the subject of 'Immigration." Colonel Newman's address will be a humor ous one on "The Georgia Major." Governor Northen will call the convention to order and will install the new officers. The meeting will occupy two full days, Wednesday and Thursday, the 11th and 12th, with an "experience meeting" Wednesday

Of course the subject of the state fair, the

Of course the subject of the state fair, the last one and the next one, is the most important to come before the convention.

The scarcity of labor, immigration, intensive farming, direct trade and other subjects of interest will come up for discussion.

An effort will be made to secure from the state an annual appropriation of $2,500, authorized by an act passed previous to the adoption of the present constitution. The society has not received this appropriation since Governor Colquitt's second term.

The attorney general's opinion was that the new constitution prohibited this gift by the state, but there are able dissenting opinions, and a committee representing the society will probably be appointed to look into the matter more fully.

Heart Failure, Sudden Death.

The prayer of the Christian pleads for guardianship against sudden death, and yet alas, how many leaves the world for better or for worse without a single moment's warning. He died of heart failure. The tired and weary died of heart failure. The tired and weary heart failed while engaged in its momentous task of pumping the blood from the arteries and forcing it into every big and little vein that the wasting tissues of the fiesh might be replenished. How important then that the great stream of life be kept pure and its corpuscles red and active, lest the fluid grows clogged and sluggish, and the heart in an extraordinary effort snaps without a signal the thread of its muscular strength. It is your duty as one who loves the life that God has given him, to assist nature in maintaining free action of the circulatory system by keeping the blood in a assist nature in maintaining free action of the circulatory system by keeping the blood in a state of purity and health. Nature has supplied healing and strengthening herbs for this purpose. Science has discovered what they are and the eminent Dr. John Bull, of Louisville, Ky., has blended them in his superior preparation known as Dr. Bull's Sarsaparilla. Demand it of your druggist. IMMENSE IMPORTATIONS.

IMMENSE IMPORTATIONS.

Dr. W. W. Lamb, the chief drug inspector at the port of Philadelphia under the late President Arthur's administration, writes as follows:

"I have used Johann Hoff's Mait Extract for the past five years in my private practice, and have found it to be the best health-restoring beverage and tonic nutritive known. I have found it especially good for persons convaleacing from fever, in cases of dyapepsia. for mother's nursing, and in cases of weakly children, and also in lung troubles. My attention was drawn by the immense importation semi-monthly, and about a million of bottles imported by you have passed my inspection in the custom house satisfactorily for the past five years."

Avoid imitations. There is nothing "just as good" when you can obtain the genuine article, which must have the signature of "Johann Hoff" on the neck of every bottle.

Messrs. Dorsey & Howell have been retained to look after Morris's interests.

The New Orleans detectives told Officer Jordan, who went there after Morris, that they thought he had come there thinking he could make a stake with what money he had and then go back to Atlanta and square up, but that he had lost all his money instead of winning.

Mlle. Rhea.

It was generally conceded by those critics who were called upon last season to pass judgment on Mile. Rhea's new play, "Josephine, Empress of the French," that it was one of the strongest historical plays that had ever been seen on the modern stage. In view of the columns of lauda-tory criticisms that have been written about this great production and about the handsome actress's interpretation of the part of Napoleon's loving spouse, Josephine, it is safe to anticipate a theatrical treat on Wednesday and Thursday evenings and Thursday imatines. The author of the play, Mr. Albert Roland Haven, is said to the play, Mr. Albert Roland Haven, is said to have closely followed the lives of Napoleon Bonaparte and the Empress Josephine. As the brilliant critic of The Chicago Inter-Ocean says, "In the lines of the play, in the speeches of the different personages, in the scenes and incidents he presents, plentiful evidence that he has been a diligent student of whatever was French in the brilliant, stirring era of the French empire, even to giving us a Napoleon, in which is a deal of common clay and not too much of golden refulgence."

gence."
Every prominent dramatic critic in this country has declared her Josephine to be the best thing the magnetic actress has ever done. This is praise indeed when we remember her "Frou-Frou," "Adrienne" and "Camille." In fact, several of these writers said in effect: "She is no longer Rhea to us, but Josephine."

The Clemenceau Case. Probably no play ever created a greater sensa-tion than has the "Clemenceau Case," and that will be produced at the opera house on January 30th and 31st. Miss Laura Biggar is the sar lady who played the part of "She" in the same lady who played the part of "She" in the play of that name, and also played the principal part in "After Dark," and will be remembered as having been an unusually beautiful woman. Her work as Iza is spoken of as being the best she has yet done, and taken together with the beauty of her face and figure, has placed her in the front rank of artists playing that part.

Side-Tracked Again.

The force bill, in spite of the efforts of Hoar and the republican bourbons, has been side-tracked again.

It is to be hoped that this disposes of the infamous measure, and yet it must be borne in mind that the revolutionary purpose behind the bill is fed, not only by the hope of partisan success but by sectional malignity of the most violent kind. It is to be borne in mind, also, that the power and patronage of the administration are pledged to the support of the force bill, and the power and influence of the administration from a party point of view bear no sort of relation to the character and intellect of the president. Mr. Harrison is the smallest and most insignificant person that ever sat in the executive chair, not even excepting Mr. Hayes, but, as a narrow-minded and bigoted partisan, Mr. Harrison is a very powerful person among the republican politicians.

The force bill was laid aside yesterday on motion of Senator Wolcott, who called up the apportionment bill. The vote was very close on the motion-thirty-five to thirtyfour-showing how narrow is the margin that lies between the people of the south and the purposes of the republican conspirators. Messrs. Cameron, Teller, Wolcott, Stewart, Washburn and Jones voted with the democrats, and Senator Ingalls was paired in favor of displacing the force

Our correspondent says it is the belief in Washington that this action means the final burial of the measure, and it is to be hoped that this is true, but it need not be said that Hoar and his brethren will stick to the force bill to the end.

If the vote in favor of taking up the apportionment bill includes all who are opposed to the force bill, the margin is too narrow to be comfortable. Senator Hearst is said to be dying, and should he pass away before the final test, the republican bourbons will gain a vote and the democrats lose one, so that if the vote to side-track is representative, there is still danger that the bill will become a law.

It has been hinted, however, that there are some republican senators who, while they have been voting with Hoar all along, will oppose the force bill when it comes to a final vote. It is best, however, to take things as we find them. There is abundant reason for feeling grateful for the situation as it is. It is a relief to know that the infamous measure is even temporarily out of the way. Let us hope that the malignants and conspirators have at last reached the end of their

It Goes Without Saying.

The recent wholesale denunciation of the present methods of the republican party by The Boston Globe has evoked indignant sts from many republican journals. The Globe published a cartoon representing the party as a burglar rifling the people's treasuries, and made the following statements:

In no less than six states at this moment the republican party is engaged in political grand larceny. In Illinois, Kansas, South Dakota, Nebraska, New Hampshire and Connecticut, by slightly different processes which amount to the same thing—the overthrow of the popular will as xpressed at the ballot box-they are engaged in expressed at the band box—they are engaged in seizing state governments and United States sen-atorships to which they have no sort of legal or moral right. At this rate politics will soon be reced to the level of burglary.

The Omaha Bee thinks that this is a libel on the republican party, but in the face of the facts it is useless to enter a protest. The record of the past is before the people. The work of the republican congress under Speaker Reed's dominion is sufficient evidence of the truth of The Boston Globe's statements, and it is hard to see how honest republican newspapers can defend that work.

The waning influence of the republican party is keenly felt in states where it has been strong heretofore, and in these states, at this early day, they are preparing for the next national campaign by laying schemes to overthrow the will of the people. This is especially the case in Indiana, where a prominent republican recently declared openly that he knew there were more democrats than republicans in the state; and that the republicans would have to "get around" the votes of the people "in some way," no matter what that might be. The admission was frankly made that Indiana was formerly carried for the republicans by corruption. and the old methods were recommended as the best chances of success in the future.

The mild denials of partisan newspapers all not do. The party stands self-convicted fraud. It is before the bar of the people, and they have already outlined their verdict.

Conflicting Arguments.

The New York Financial Chronicle, while it is opposed to the free coinage of silver forward arguments in support of its dtion that are calculated to hurt the feelngs of the Wall street organs who have been denouncing the free coinage proposi-

This seems to be the great difficulty with the monometallists. Their opposition to silver is so blind and furious that they crack each other's heads whenever an opportunity offers. They have one argument that has ne duty for a long time. It has been produced so often that it now ranks as a venerable chestnut; it is so ancient, indeed. that it deserves to be treated with some consideration, especially by the doctrinaires of finance who practically agree with the gold-bug editors. This venerable chestnut is to the effect that a free act will cause this country to be gold-bug editors asks, "to make this country the dumping ground for the depreciated silver of the nations of the earth?" It has been observed that the use of capital letters makes a powerful argument picturesque The gold-bug editors have discovered this and they are working it industriously. We are left to infer that if all the nations of the earth begin to dump their depreciated silver into the lap of Columbia the results will be very serious. The Financial Chronicle, however, which discusses matters in small pica type and wide columns, and from the standpoint of an expert, is on the point of perceiving that the dumping argument is not entitled to any respect on account of its age. So The Chronicle tears down the elaborate argumen and builds up another to the effect tha foreign silver will not come here at all, and that there can be no inflation of the currency as the result of free coinage.

Now, then, what are the gold-bug editors and financiers, who have been using the dumping-ground and inflation argument with such powerful effect, going to do about it? The editor of The Financial Chronicle is regarded as an expert, and no Wall street minion will be bold enough to dispute or engage him in a controversy. This able editor, however, has an argument to take the place of the favorite chestnut. It is not a new one, but it seems to be equally as powerful as the old one. It is this, ladies and gentlemen, friends and fellow-citizens: Gold is to disappear. Gold is to be hoarded. Gold is to be exported. Just think of that a moment and turn it over in your minds while the able financial expert wipes his perspiring brow.

It is a wonderful theory. What is gold to he exported for? What will It he worth to the business man who hoards it? Did gold go out of circulation when there was free coinage of silver? As gold cannot be said to be in circulation now, so far as the people are concerned, will the people be hurt when the gold-bug withdraws their fetish from the public gaze? These are questions that suggest themselves at once.

The Forests of New York.

The state of New York just now furnishes an object lesson in forestry. The destruction of the Adirondack forests has gone so far that the people have become aroused and are holding mass meetings to enter their pro-

Such a meeting in the museum of natural history last Saturday was attended by more than a thousand people. Among the prominent gentlemen on the stage were Ellis H. Roberts, assistant treasurer of the United States, and Ex-President Grover Cleveland. Hon. Warren Higley said in a speech that, since France realized in 1887 how fast her forests were going, she had spent $4,365,700 in replanting them, and it would take $34,-000,000 to complete the work. Coming nearer home, he said that, in the last five years, the normal depth of North river, in Warren county, had decreased eight feet during the heated season, and had increased six feet during freshets. Within eight years there had been no flood in the Adirondacks which had done less than $30,000 damage.

It is unnecessary to point out the logic of these facts, but the mention of them will be useful in rousing our own people to the importance of the subject. A great deal has been written and published about the disastrous results following the stripping of forests from the hills of France and other old world countries; but that was so far away that it did not seem to bring the matter home. Here we have the logic of destruction followed to its conclusion in our own country, and so to speak, under our Forest preservation is a matter immensely more important to our people of Georgia than to the citizens of New York. We have a vastly larger interest to protect, and it is being destroyed even faster than that of the Empire State.

The question is, what are we going to do about it? If all our pine forests were under one management, they would without doubt be so husbanded as to make of them a permanent estate, of equal or increasing value to each successive generation; but in a condition of affairs where parties who have no permanent interest in the forests are, for a rifling sum, allowed access to the timber with full license to destroy it, selfish interest is doing its desolate work.

In the southern pine belt the turpentine industry offers a special temptation to destruction of the timber. There is no need and no desire to make war on the turpentine men, but the indiscriminate sapping of small timber ought to be stopped. In New York, it is recommended that no timber smaller than a foot in diameter shall be cut.

A Friend to the Farmers.

From The Cedartown, Ga., Standard. THE ATLANTA CONSTITUTION is a great paper, and it is doing a great work. The farmer s of the south have found in it a friend who is neither afraid nor ashamed to champion their cause.

A CONSTITUTIONAL GOSSIP.

There recently came to Atlanta a gentleman who had been on familiar terms with the great English philosopher, Faraday. The gentleman of whom I speak was on his way o Florida. He was a New Yorker, and ose name stands among the highest in current

I met him by purest chance. A few minutes converse decided me to get from him some remin-scences of a long and successful career devoted absolutely to scientific pursuits.

Think of a man who had known Morse, had dined with Professor Wheatstone, shadshobnobbed at a Sydenham hall banquet with Sir Humphrey Davy, and in effect knew nearly all of the great men of the last two generations.

He made only one stipulation, which I must respect, and that is, that his own name be not printed. But scientific students, and there are many in Atlanta, will easily recognize his identity when reading these lines. Especially the medical fraternity.

"Whom among the great English scientists doctor?" I asked, "did you consider the greatest?" "Well," was the reply, "the adjective is not well chosen. They are all great. Darwin, Davy, Huxley, Mills, Tyndall, et id omne genus—they were all great. Suppose you ask me who has done most to advance the caus "I will so amend the question.

"Then Faraday beyond all doubt. Galvani and others of the Italian schools wrought wonders, but it was left to Faraday, the greatest scientific genius of the century in scientific genius of the century my humble opinion, to invent certain for my humble opinion, to inveht certain formulas, to establish certain laws and discover certain processes which have led to the magnificent electrical development of the present day. Faraday brought the science of electricity to that point where his juniors could grasp his ideas and carry where his juniors could grasp his ideas and carry them into practical effect."

"I met Faraday," he continued, "first in 1863. He was then an old man, having been born, I believe, in 1791—but was still well preserved, and with his faculties as acute as ever. Did you know he had been a pupil of Sir Humphrey Davy? Well, he was. Faraday was born a poor boy and was, in his youth, in a printing office, I believe. But he displayed an unmistakable bent towards scientific pursuits, and especially in the direction of electricity, which was then just beginning to attract attention. He attended he told me, the lectures at the Royal institution of Sir H. Davy and then, with much fear and trembling, mit the aken to the great once saw his merit him his chemical had a splendif he rapif we began to the control of the co days knowledge. Then Faraday began the series of investigations which made him famous, and which ended only with his life. He discovered early in his career the chlorides of carbon-most important discovery-and afterwards the mutual rotation of a magnetic pe and a magnetic current. It would take more space than you can spare in THE CONSTITUTION to tell of his development of the induction of electric currents, the evolution of electricity from magnetism, of his establishment of the principle definite electrolytic action, of his discoveries diamagnetism and the influence of magnetism of light,—all these would take too long to explain and occupy too much space."

"But of Faraday as a man?

"He was quick in temper at times, but genial, honest and generous to a fault. In his latter years he had an ample income, nearly all of which he gave away in charity or devoted to scientific investigation. In private life he was one of the most modest men you ever saw, and as to morals!" and here the old gent. He held up his hands, "he was simply a saint. He held up his hands, "he was simply a saint. He ived only for science, and although pension the government to the extent of £300 a year, at the recipient of an income of near the recipient of an income of nea £5,000 more, he gave nearly all of away, living simply and quietly himself. £5,000

"Alcohole "Yes; he did not disdain a glass of generor wine, but by alchohol he meant rum, whisky brandy, gin, etc. I have often heard him say that the human race was 1,000 years behind where it should be, solely on account

'A thousand years?" "Yes, and he could prove it. He was a believe in that respect? he would ask.

"Oh! Faraday was a great man, and better still, he was a good man.

Find a man who has made a study of the build ing and loan association system and you will find an enthusiastic advocate of those institutions. There are many associations in Atlanta and their work has been a powerful factor toward building up Atlanta.

A gentleman who is interested in several of ese associations, and who has observed thei workings in other cities, gave me some interesting facts yesterday.

Philadelphia is regarded the parent of the buildng and loan associations in America, the firs ng established there in 1831, with a record of 9,000 houses built during the year of 1890. delphia points with pride to the fact that a large percentage of these are the property of working people, and it is recognized that without the opera-tion of over 600 loan and building associations.

offering such advantages as they do, this result would have never been brought about.

At first but little interest was manifested in that first association, so that ten years later the were practically unknown. However, Pennsylvanians emigrating to other states began introducing them, Philadelphia remaining the center In the latter place there were fifty in 1850, and by 1860 they po essed a firm hold in Boston, Buffal Baltimore and Cincinnati. If they had existed in New York they had almost entirely disappeared in 1860, and did not reappear till 1885.

Of course there was but little growth during the years of the war, and not until the earlier sever ties did the associations begin to take the pla they now hold. Pennsylvania granted charters to 1,169 associations from 1874 to 1889. In the las ten years that state, together with Ohio, Illinois Indiana, Minnesota and others to a lesser degree have made rapid strides forward.

"But there is no state," continued my informant,
"that has made as systematic and successful endeavors to place the associations under a proper state supervision and limit of the state supervision and st state supervision and limit the manner of tranacting their business to safe and equitable methods as Massachusetts. They are called there sachusetts. They are call methods as Massachusetts. They are called the 'co-operative banks,' and are under the dir supervision of the commissioner of savings ban to whom they report, and the commissioners put lish annually detailed reports with reference

There are many plans of operation, though the differences are as a rule merely a detail. The hold they have on the people is great, and it ought to be, for a home has been placed within the reach of many a poor man who could not otherwise hope to live beneath his own vine and figtree. Here in Atlanta all the associations do well. They are in good hands and have added many fundred homes

At the latter port they were honored by a visit from the royal family of England. At Stockholm the royal family of Swe-den visited the Savannah and enjoyed a short excursion upon her. Ellaville, in Schley county, deserves to rank as the model town of Georgia. There is not a young man in Ellaville who gets drunk. In 1862 Milo Gaston, who is a native of New Hampshire, joined a regiment from that state and went to the front. He was captured, and while on his way to Andersonville prison escaped. He wandered about through woods and swamps for nearly three weeks. When famished with hunger and crazed by what he believed to be continued pursuit, he decided to give himself up. One evening he scrambled out of the thicket and made his way to a large, old-fashioned southern home. A cold rain had set in, and caring little whether he lived or died, he walked boldly up to the driveway and knocked. The place seemed dieserted. A few minutes later he became conscious that some one was scrutinizing him from a window a few feet away. He was finally admitted by a young woman who carried a revoiver in her hand. She got him some supper and said she was alone in the house, but expected her futher, who was home from the confederate army on a sick leave, to return at any time. THE SHERWOOD RECITAL TONIGHT The Sherwood piano recital tonight in the amusement hall of the Young Men's Christian As-sociation will attract a very large audience, judg-ing by the large number of tickets already sold This will be by long odds the most interesting event that has occurred in Atlanta this winter The high reputation of Mr. Sherwood has preceded his coming, so it is not necessary to exto his merits as a pianist and composer. In New York and Boston, whenever his name appears as one of the performers at any concert, a large crowd is certain to be present, for he ranks as high as any of the great pianists of either of these musical cities.

It is doubtful if so great a pianist as Sherwood has ever been heard of in Atlanta, and every music lover in the city should attend his ricital tonight. The programme he has chosen is admirable in all respects, embracing many notable works of the great masters. To hear this incom-parable artist play the "Moonlight Sonata," by Beethoven, is worth the price of admission. In speaking of tonight's concert the music

Beethoven, is worth the price of admission. In speaking of tonight's concert the musicians infuse themselves with enthusiasm.

Mrs. Madden: "I am delighted to have the opportunity of hearing Mr. Sherwood. I want all my pupils to hear him. I consider the coming of Sherwood the greatest event in piano music we have ever had in the city."

Miss Willie Howard: "I am glad to say that I consider him one of the most magnificent players in the country. His playing here is unquestionably the music event of the season. I congratulate myself and all lovers of music in this city upon the opportunity we will have to hear Mr. Sherwood. No one who desires to become better acquainted with the great musical minds of the world should fail to hear this great artist's interpretation of their immortal works."

Mr. Barile: "It is a rare occurrence that an artist like Mr. Sherwood comes to this city. I would certainly advise all lovers of music to hear him, especially planists. I shall advise all my scholars to hear Mr. Sherwood."

The recital will begin at 8 o'clock tonight in the Young Men's Christian Association. Mr. Sherwood plano.

There is never a threadbard incident or a hackneyed scene—all fresh, invigor ating, stimulating. She has achieved much and will do more, being young, gifted, in love with her art, she will undoubtedly win a place in the first rank of southern writers. She will do good work in whatever field she labors, and admits, in a private letter relating to her stories in the negro and Dago (Diego) dialects, "I have plans for something more ambitious, though I find myself-constant; turning aside to deal with the picturesque folk of mixed speech," and readers of "Mingo," "Lamentations of Jeremiah Johnson," "Crazy Abe," and this latest triumph, "A Golden Wedding," will re-

What Is Being Done at the Woman's Christian Home on Peters Street.

There was an interesting meeting of the executive board at the above home last Friday afternoon. The matron's report showed valuable donations from an unusual number of the good citinations from an unusual number of the good cur-zens of Atlanta. The twenty-seven inmates are in good health and a very happy, handsome lot of children. They are in need of winter clothing for boys and girls from eight to twelve years or age. The ladies ask that such donations of clothing be sent to the home, 49 West Peters street, by next Friday, that they may repair and get them ready for the children, several of whom attend the pub-lic school.

The intenion is to open a lunch room at the home, where dressmakers, female, clerks, and women and girls whose places of business are too far for them to go to dinner, can bring their lunches and get a cup of hot tea, coffee or chocolate free of cost. In addition to this the parlor will be comfortably warmed, and supplied with excellent magazines, the daily papers and good books and the noon hour of rest can be pleasantly and comfortably spent in the "Christian Home." The ladies in charge will, at an early day, have a social reunion at the home, to which all their friends and other benevolent institutions in the city will be confailly invited, and the plans for opening this lunch room and noon rest will be consummated. The laddes return many thanks to all persons who have aided them so generously during the pass year, and to the city council for the renewal of the appropriation of $900 for the present year.

TWO SUCCESSES. Women in the South Who Are Making is

In the first magazine in this country, in its most ambitious issue of 1889—the holiday number—there appeared as its fairest attraction a story entitled, "A Golden Wedding," by Rnth McEnery Stuart. Mrs. Stuart is a resident of New Orleans, and belongs to the best people of her section. She is a young widow with one child, a son. A pi of her shows an expressive, intellectual face. She is slight and graceful in figure. Her fame is due largely to her success as a writer of short stories, mainly in dialect, which have appeared in The Princeton Review, Youth's Companion, America, Harper's Magazine and other popular and fastidious journals. She has peen porticularly felicitous in producing not only the words of her negro characters, but the very coloring of the thought behind the words, and her writings in that vein are pronounced faultiess by the most competent judges; added to these rare qualifications is her bold and original conception of plot and situation. There is never a threadbard incident or a hackneyed scene—all fresh, invigorating, stimulating. She has achieved much and will do more, being young, gifted, in love with he art, she will undoubtedly win a place in the first rank of southern writers. She will do good work in whatever field she labors, and admits, in a private letter relating to her stories in the negro and Dago (Diego) dialects, "I have plans for something more ambitious, though I find myself constantly turning aside to deal with the picturesquimixed speech," and readers of "Mingo," tations of Jeremiah Johnson," "Crazy Abe," and this latest triumph, "A Golden Wedding," will re-joice that she has "turned aside" to sow such sweet and lasting flowers by the way.

Orelia Key Bell is worthy a place here, It has been only a few years since fugitive pieces commenced to fly about in the southern papers signed with the unfamiliar name quoted above. KILLED HIS WIFE.

A DISPATCH WHICH STARTLED THE CITY OF ROME.

Seorge H. Snyder, Formerly of Rome Underwood's Daughter

Rome, Ga., January 26 .- [Special.]-A senational piece of news was on the streets of Rome this morning. A telegram was received from San Marcos, Texas, last night, stating that George N. Snyder shot and killed his wife yesterday. THE CONSTITUTION was informed that Snyder drew his pistol and fired, killing his wife.

As soon as the telegram was received, W. M. Hauton and Charles W. Underwood, of this city, left for the scene of the tragedy. Underwood is a brother of Mrs. Snyder. Snyder is a daughter of the late Judge John W. H. Underwood, and spent her girlhood days in Rome. She married quite young George Snyder, a commercial traveler. They resided in Rome for a while, but on account of mistreatment by her husband, it is said, they separated for a number of years. They were afterwards reconciled, and lived together. Mrs. Snyder was very pretty and very at-tractive. She was a teacher in the Rome pub-lic school for a number of years. She sang in the church choirs of the city, and had the sweetest voice in Rome.

Some two years ago Mr. and Mrs. Snyder moved to Texas. Mrs. Snyder has many relatives in Rome, and much sympathy is expressed. Mr. and Mrs. Snyder have three children. It is reported Snyder is in jail.

Her cheeks looked like the downy side of a peach, her eyes were of a soft, heavenly blue, and peach, her eyes were of a soft, neavenly blue, and a little toque bonnet rested jauntily on a profusion of golden ringlets that fell all about her head. Her lips were as red as red can be, and were arched like a Cupid's bow.

She smiled at her tall companion as she entered the Sixth avenue elevated train at the Thirty-ninth street station, disclosing to view.

Thirty-ninth street station, disclosing to view two rows of pearly teeth. Her cheeks literally rippled with dimples. Thrills of pleasure shot athwart the countenances of the male passergers. There was no mistaking their looks. They envied the tall companion. The car was crowded, but six men were on their feet in a twinkling and as many invitations were extended to the dream of loveliness to be seated. Men stopped reading the morning papers to gaze at the beautiful passenger. She acted like a magnet. She is going to speak to her tall companion! He stands directly in front of and leaning over her. THE NEW YORK STOCK MARKET. The Day on the Floor of the New York Stock Exchange.

NEW YORK, January 26.—The stock market today, considering the utter collapse of the telegraphic system of the country, was quite active, but the opportunity to break the market was too good to be wasted by the advocates of lower figures, and a series of raids upon the Gould stocks and coal stocks brought the prices of all of them down materially, though there was some comof them down materially, though there was some company for them among the rest of the list. Stop orders were uncovered in some of the stocks and considerable long stock was sold. The declines in leading stocks today were caused by well-directed raids by some unknown interest, and as the Goulds played a very important part in the affair Gould received the credit of manipulation, though the ream of manipulation was not apparent, but some ulterior design was assigned according to feelings of the Critic. The first break was in Missouri Pacific, but it was sold down by two of the leading room traders. Union Pacific followed with a break of over 2 per cent, and all the leading western stocks sympathized to a limited extent. Later in the day Jersey Central had a severe drop on light transactions, falling away from 111% to 106, against 113% at the last previous sale last week any for them among the rest of the list. Stop orders drop on light transactions, falling away from 111% to 106, against 113% at the last previous sale last week Lackawanna and Reading joined in the downward movement, though the last named was kept rather quiet. The professional element was everywhere conspicuous in helping the market down, but the long stock came out on the break, In the last hour Manhattan joined the weak stocks falling 3 per cent, but with the rest of the list made a material recovery in the final dealings when there was something of a rush to cover short stocks sold earlier omething of a rush to cover short stocks sold earlier the day at higher prices. Chicago Gas was the crong spot in the market today, and although it fluctwithin comparatively narrow limits, in final transactions was an insignificant fraction lower. Its late weakness, and the weakness of the rest of the list, made it conspicuous today. There was specially heavy covering in Lackawanna, Union Pacific and Jersey Central in the last few minutes of trading, and the market closed firm at something better than the lowest prices. Final changes are almost all losses and Jersey Central is down 6¼ per cent; Manhattan. 2¼ Union Pacific 1½; Pacific Mail 1½; Lackawanna 1½; Reading 1¼; Cleveland, Chicago, Cincin natia & St. Louis 1¼ and Wheeling & Lake Eric stocks each 1½. THE CHICAGO MARKET.

THE CHICAGO MARKET.

Features of the Speculative Movement in Grain and Provisions.

CHICAGO, January 26.—There was an enormous quantity of long wheat dumped upon the crowd during the first 15 minutes of operations, yet the prices went up from around 97 cents and 97% cents to 97%. There was a lively tussic for mastery at 97% cents, but that being overcome, an additional % cent was put on without much trouble. The principal fluctuations afterwards till 12 o'clock were downward, reacting to 97 cents and advanced to 97% cents. Another decline to 97% cents, a gradual advance to 97% cents, a quick bulge to 97% cents, followed by a rapid decline to 97% and prices and trading for a few minutes at 96% cents, but the attempted execution of a few buying orders caused the price to jump to 97% cents in a few minutes. Corn trade was affected consiberably by the strong feeling among operators in wheat, and opened for May at an advance of % cents over Saturday's renting prices. The first transactions were at 52% cents, and the bulge immediately followed, which carried it to 58c. There was reaction to 62% c and another alight upturn to 52% and 52% c, but during the latter half of the session dullnes was the rule and a decline to 52% c took place. session dulines was the rule and a decline to 521/60 too

The strength in the wheat and corn had but little

The strength in the wheat and corn had but little effect on the oats market, which was barely steady. There was only a small amount of business owing to the absence of country orders.

The firmness in grain gave an unsubstantial appearance of strength to the provision market at opening. Packers were not slow to take measure of how much product such a market would absorb and placed their offerings on top of it, until it had sagged back from an advance of 15c in the matter of pork to a decline in the end of 5c below the level of Saturday's closing quotations.

There was scarcely any change in the lard market, and ribs, after a 5c advance, closed 2½c lower than at the close of the preceding week.

CHICAGO, January 28.—Notwithstanding the interruption of telegraphic communication between Chicago and New York we had a good, active market today. The cash situation continues unchanged, No. 2 red having sold in St. Louis at 1e per bushel over the May option, and spot wheat in Liverpool sold at 8s per cental, which is said to be the highest price in that market for two years. Local scalper considered the advance a little too sharp to hold, consequently were free sellers on every bulge, also holders who bought around 95c and pelow were quite free sellers, realising handsome profits, but, notwithstanding this, the market closed strong, about 1e per bushel over Saturday's ket closed strong, about le per bushel over Saturday's losing. While we are firm believers in wheat at the prices which have prevailed the past few weeks, we would advise caution against buying on these sharp accuraces. Corn was somewhat active and higher. The trades would most likely have been much larger had there been telegraphic communication between this city and New York, but the closing is very satisfactory to

New 10rs, but the holders.

Trading in oats was very light. Nearly all the receipts were taken at about Saturday's prices.

Speculators in mess pork were quite liberal buyers on the opening, believing that the advance in wheat would cause a sentiment favorable to that product, but the orders for domestics were rather limited, and the packers were the principal sellers throughout the day, causing rather a dull, heavy closing. Speculation is not likely to be very lively until hogs become less numerous.

BOB FORD IN A SHOOTING SCRAPE. Jesse James's Slayer and Another "Bad" Man Slightly Wounded.

WALSENBERG, Col., January 25.—Once more Bob Ford, the slayer of Jesse James, is a principal in a shooting scrape. J. D. Harden runs a saloon between the town and the mines. He and Ford have not been on good terms for some time. The two men were shootterms for some time. The two men were shooting craps Wednesday night and quarreled over the stakes.

They adjourned to the bar for a drink, and the quarrel was renewed. Both men began firing rapidly at each other. They were so close that each one was trying to knock the other's gun out of the way, and as a consequence the bullets flew in every direction. The bystanders who were in the room at the time began crawling behind tables and hiding behind the bar, and one man attempted to crawl into the stove, but was prevented by a red-hot fire. Harden was shot in the shoulder, the ball going through and coming out in the back, and was also shot in the hand. Ford back, and was also shot in the hand. Ford was hit in the foot and badly burned about the face with powder. Both men were arrested. Both guns had seen service before. The one used by Ford is the one with which he shot Jasse James and which he had. shot Jesse James, and which he has carried with him ever since. Harden's revolver is the one which Pete Foley used when he shot Jack Edwards some mouths ago.

ATLANTA'S HEALTH.

ANNUAL REPORT OF THE BOARD OF

White and Black Mortality-Water and Milk Discussed-City Cows Drinking Bad Water.

The annual report of the board of health is in the hands of the printer and will soon be issued from the press. Owing to the subjects of unusual difficulty with which the board had to deal last year, the document is looked for-ward to with more than ordinary interest.

The first thing that strikes the eye, on asual run over the pages, is the heavy increase in mortality in 1890 over previous years, and the question which suggests itself is whether the contamination of the water had anything to do with this unpleasant result.

The mortality per thousand for the year was: blacks, 36.28; whites, 15.71. Total average 23.05.

erage, 23.05.

As the condition of life among the whites is As the condition of life among the whites is the most uniform from year to year, it will perhaps be fairest to make the comparison between 1890 and previous years in the mortality of whites alone, but the rates among both races are given for ten years, and are quoted from th	e table as follow	VS:

Year.	Total rate.	White.	Color
1880	17.08	13.00	2
1881	24.66	19.22	- 31
1882	21.00	13.84	. 31
1883	21.74	14.86	35
1884	21.33	13.34	33
1885	20.23	13.06	31
1886	14.86	10.10	2
1887	20.87	14.82	33
1888	20.63	13.13	30
1889	19.87	12.73	33
1890	23.05	15.71	. 36
TA 27

ES

It will be seen that the mortality of 1890 was the heaviest of the decade, with the exception of 1881, when it was 19.22 for the whites, against 15.71 last year. The mortality among the negroes in 1890 was about two and a half times that of the whites, which is about the average proportion, but it is the heaviest negro mortality of the decade.

The record of negro mortality in Atlanta, Charleston and other cities is a fact of great significance when compared with the death rate of the country districts. The mortality for the southern states is given by the census of 1880 at 14.04 for whites and 17.22 for the negroes.

Therefore, in the average of town and country, the negro mortality is a little less than one-fourth larger than that of the whites.

one-fourth larger than that of the whites. When they come to the city they die from two to three times as fast as the white people. The inference is plain that the safe place for the negro is in the country.

The report of the board of health discusses the water contamination at length and furnishes numerous analyses to sustain its endorsement of the oily water after filteration. It, however, gives the comfortable assurance that arrangements have been made which render a repetition of the calamity well nigh impossible. A dam has been built so as to prevent the flow of oil into the reservoir in case the oil mill's tanks should again be emptied on the water sheds. The oil company has rebuilt its tanks of iron and stone and separated them from the mill by such a distance as will leave little risk of fire.

Water System Inadequate.

Such a distance as will leave little risk of fire.

Water System Inadequate.

Touching the oil incident the report says:

"It forcefully demonstrates two points: The dependence of the city upon a public water supply and the inadequacy of the present system to satisfactorily meet the public needs."

The board discusses the effect of perforated manhole taps, used to allow the escape of gas from the sewers into the street. They think the ventilation in the streets removes the the ventilation in the streets removes the the ventilation in the streets removes the pressure of sewer gas in the houses, and decreases the volume of gas escaping from yard vents. For this reason they think the street vent is conservative of the public health.

In regard to the disposal of sewage and garbage the board thinks the city must eventually come to ceremation, but does not think there is a present necessity for going to that expense.

Adulteration of Milk.

On this subject the report makes this im-ortant statement: "Unfortunately there is portant statement: Unfortunately there is no regulation which fixes the quality of milk, and although a considerable portion of the community—invalids and infants for the most part-depend, wholly or to a great degree, upon the marketed milk for susupon the marketed milk for sus-tenance, there is reason to believe that the article sometimes furnished to inno-cent purchasers has been tampered with and fraudulently adulterated. In the absence of well-considered market regulations, it is dif-ficult to deal with these abuses in an effective manner, but it is possible that some plan, de-signed to correct this evil, may be formulated and submitted to your honorable body during the coming year."

the coming year."

The report of Sanitary Inspector Veal shows what good ground the board has for its remarks on bad milk and shows that other causes than fraud are making some of it bad.

F. J. Lewis.

Personally came before me, Albert L. Beck, a notary public of Fulton county, Georgia, F. J. Lewis. who, on oath, says the above statement is true and correct.

ALBERT L. BECK, Notary Public, causes than fraud are making some of it bad. He says:

"There are 772 cows in the city, not including those in the dairies around the city. As your honorable body probably knows, the owners of cows throughout the city are accustomed to place them in charge of boys each day to be driven to pastures around the suburbs. These boys take the cows to meadows and lowlands lying along the banks and streams into which the large sewers of the city empty, and which are thus mere channels for the filthiest and most polluted waters. In the heart of the summer I have seen cows stand. fithiest and most polluted waters. In the heart of the summer I have seen cows standing in and drinking this liquid pollution. In fact, they drink it altogether, as no pure water is accessible. Now as your honorable body understands, milk is very easily contaminated and rendered impure by what the cows cat and drink. The milk of the sewer-watered cows is used all over Atlanta, fed to the sick and invalid, to the infants and little children and can but proper vasily injurious to the and can but prove vastly injurious to the health and strength of our people."

The inspector notes the fact that slaughter houses which were notified to move beyond the new city limits, and got a temporary injuncion from the state courts, yet linger with their dorous business, much to the annoyance of the neighboring citizens.

A. T. Scoggins nettined Kenny & McDonald, sterday morning, that he was unable to continue

They held a mortgage of about $200 on his stock of groceries, at No. 648 Marietta street, and with their attorney, Mr. H. M. Patty, they proceeded to foreclose the mortgage.

This was done, and the property placed in the thing stock about The husiness was not a large and the sheriff. The business was not a large one, and the assets will hardly meet the obligations, which amount to several hundred dollars. Scoggins came to the city from Dainth, Ga., and began business about eight months ago. He was unsuccessful and hence went to the wall.

Judge Van Epps Fixes the Civil and Criminal Terms.

Yesterday in the city court the argument was concluded in the case of George D. Hall vs. the Richmond and Danville railroad, for $20,000

The jury was unable to agree up to 5 o'clock and the toreman was instructed to bring in a sealed verdict if they agreed during the night. 'Judge Van Epps passed an order Saturday fixing the term of the civil court for this week and next week, the criminal court to open on the second Monday and continue for two weeks. On the first Monday in March the civil docket will again be taken up and continued until all the cases are disposed of for the term.

ATLANTA, Ga., January 22, 1891.—I suffered very severely for three days and nights with a thoroughly developed case of "La Grippe," experiencing exeruciating pains in my head and a cramping sensation throughout the enand a cramping sensation throughout the entire body; an aching of the ears, eyes and throat; very nervous; high fever one minute and chilling the next. I had very little faith in the "Carbolic Smoke Ball" treatment, but was prevailed upon to try it, which I did. The first dose gave me immediate relief. I followed this with a light dose each hour for six hours, then every two hours the following day. hours, then every two hours the following day, and am happy to say I am entirely cured. I cannot recommend the remedy too highly, and feel it my duty to advise those suffering from this terrible malady to give it a trial.

I had a high fever, and was chilly at times, and was also very nervous. I was unable to attend to my duties—was confined to my bed twenty-four (24) hours. After but two doses of the "Carbolic Smoke Ball" treatment I was entirely relieved, and was enabled to return to my duties the following morning.

THE BAILWAY WORLD. QUEEN AND CRESCENT CUTS RATES AND SO DOES THE ELLEN N.

Has the Louisville and Nashville Gobbled the Monon ?—Anent the Ticket Scalpers—Other News. Reliable Goods.

The Queen and Crescent has just announced a reduction in rates to all Florida points, based on a cut from $21.20 to $18.50 from Cincinnati to Jacksonville. This brings the Cincinnati rates to the same level per mile as the Louisville and Nashville rate from St. Louis. The new rate goes into effect on Febuary 2d. District Passenger Agent Parker, of the Louisville and Nashville, announces that his road will meet the rate to Jacksonville, which will necessarily shave the rate to Thomasville, Pensacola and other points. This throws the onus of any further move on the Queen and Crescent.

Mr. C. H. Woodwell, formerly of the Gulf, Colorado and Santa Fe, has been made traveling passenger agent of the Louisville South-ern and Queen and Crescent at Louisville, effective February 1, 1891.

The latest rumor in railroad circles is to the effect that the Louisville, New Albany and Chicago railroad, the well-known Monon route, will shortly pass into the hands of the Louisville and Nashville road. With the change in the management of the Monon, early last year, the Louisville and Nashville became a close ally, and the freight traffic thrown over the Monon by the Louisville and Nashville soon took the rust from the Monon's rails. At the same ime the Pennsylvania, the great northern ally of the Louisville and Nashville, made peace with its Chicago competitor, rates went up and all was serene until the Monon lost the

Permission has been granted by the East Tennessee, Virginia and Georgia people, allow-ing the Chattanooga, Rome and Columbus to enter its station at Rome and the union depot at Chattanooga.

Query: Doesn't it look as though the East ee, when it granted that permiss counted with a reasonable degree of certainty upon a return therefor in the shape of adm tance to the union depot in this city and the use of the Central's tracks thereto?

General Yardmaster Hanley, of Knoxville, one of the most efficient in the employ of the East Tennessee road, has resigned because the great reduction in his working force. His force was reduced fifteen men, and he says that consequently he couldn't hold his position and sustain his reputation as a yardmaster. Mr. Hanley's successor is his assistant, Harry Breniger. - [Chattanooga Times.

The new depot to be built for the Macon and Birmingham at LaGrange is to be a handsome modern structure, with all improvements.

Mr. Hunter McDonaid, superintendent of the Fayetteville branch of the Nashville, Chattanooga and St. Louis road, will, during the sickness of Mr. Pardon, act as resident en-gineer of the Western and Atlantic road.

The white-bearded face and tall, angular figure of the veteran conductor, Sanford Bell, of the Western and Atlantic road, will no longer be seen on the streets of Chattanooga as a knight of the bell cord, says The Times. He has resigned his position and will retire to his fine 600-acre farm over in Georgia. Mr. Bell is one of the oldest—and not the oldest—train conductors in this section of the south. His popularity extends from one end of the line to the other, and his hosts of friends will keenly regret to hear of his resignation. A number of the employes of the old Western and Atlantic have resigned or are about to resign, among the former being the veteran train baggage master, Mr. Hairston, whose home is in Atlanta, but who is well known here. "The through run to Nashville is the cause of all these old employes resigning," said a railroad man yesterday. "You see, the Western and Atlantic road has no ticket or baggage transfers between here and Atlanta, but on the has resigned his position and will retire to his transfers between here and Atlanta, but on the main line these employes would have to handle the business required by the numerous branches between here and Nashville, and they are too old to learn all that. It's a bigger job than an old man cares to tackle. Their places will be filled by Nashville and Chattanooga employes, who will have an easy time learning the Western and At-

It is said that the Richmond and Danville rail-road is behind the Danville and New River road, which was recently reorganized under the name of the Danville and Western. The Richmond and Danville, however, has no use for the property except to hold possession of the territory, and the property is for sale to any company that can utilize it without conflicting with the Richmond and Danville's interests. Danville's interests.

It is reported that a company which recently purchased about 20,000 acres of pine live lands north of Jasper contemplate building a railroad from that place to their lands at an early date.

The building of the road and cutting of the immense forests of pine into lumber would alone make Jasper a good town.

"There are no snakes in Ireland" can now be matched by the statement, "There are no scalper in Canada." The latter remarkable fact is brought to notice in a joint circular from the general passenger agents of the Grand Trunk and Canadian Pacific railways announcing rates for the annual convention of the National Education Associa-tion of the United States, to be held in Toronto, Ontario, July 14 to 17, which has this clause:

Ontario, July 14 to 17, which has this clause:

"Your attention is specially directed to the fact that there are no scalpers in Canada, the strict enforcement of the Canadian law having effectually disposed of them. If, therefore, you desire to print tickets with a final limit of September 39, 1891, it will be entirely satisfactory to us."

How wonderfully would the work and worries of general passenger agents in this country be diminished if a similar announcement could be made for the United States! With scalpers abolished, rate cutting could be brought to an end and the net receipts of the railways from ticket sales could be enormously increased. It must not be long before it can also be said with truth, "There are no scalpers in America."—[Railway Age.

Some sixty of the leading railroads throughout Some sixty of the leading railroads throughout the country have just signed an agreement not to allow any form of commission, salary, sidecut or other consideration in connection with the sale of the tickets of other companies, or permit the tickets of their own lines to be sold at any point on commission. The agreement goes into effect after February 1st. Among the roads which have been hitherto noted for their liberality in giving commissions, are the Big Four, the Monon, the Baltimore and Ohio Southwestern, the Cincinnati, Hamilton and Dayton, the Chicago and Eastern Illinois, the New York, Lake Eric and Western, the Ohio and Mississippl, the Pennsylvania lines and nd Mississippi, the Pennsylvania lines and

The Chattanooga Times has been informed that every indication points to an early completion of the Tennessee and Coosa railroad to Guntersville. Five miles of this road were completed between Gadsden and Attalla soon after the war, the work being done under the direction of Colonel R. B. Kyle and the late W. P. Hollingsworth. In 1889 the road was purchased by the Nashville, Chattanooga and St. Louis Railroad Company. The company applied to the present legislature for a charter through Madison county to Bell Factory, but the charter has been refused. Thus work on the road will cease for the present. The line is an important one, and would give Nashville direct connection, via Bell Factory, Gadsden and Anniston, with Montgomery.

That is the question.

It was a query that was put by a number of interested people Saturday and yester-

FALLING BRHIND.

Week before last he fell behind with the men in his employ, and failed to pay them their full week's wages.

Last week they all worked on until Saturday morning, when Mr. Daniel visited the house and informed the men that he had paid Murdock too much money, and that he had thrown up the job and left the city.

night, having purchased a ticket to some point in the west.

They could not learn where his objective point was, but from the price paid it was sup-posed that he was bound to some point in the far west, probably California.

HIS INDEBTEDNESS.

It soon developed that he owed various sums to the men in his employ, as well as to dealers in building material.

He owed Mr. W. S. McNeal about $100, and a considerable sum to Mr. M. M. Mauck. It is reported that he owed the Phoenix company and Mr. Reynolds bills to a considerable amount for material. He also left Rev. J. I. Oxford, pastor of the Irastreet mission church, who is now quite ill, for sand.

The Voice

Is easily injured—the slightest irritation of the throat or larynx at once affecting its tone, flexibility, or power. All efforts to sing or speak in public, under such condi-tions, become not only painful but danger-ous, and should be strictly avoided until every symptom is removed. To effect a speedy cure no other medicine is equal to

Ayer's Cherry Pectoral

The best of anodynes, this preparation rap-idly soothes irritation, strengthens the deli-cate organs of speech, and restores the voice to its tone and power. No singer or public speaker should be without it. Lydia Thompson, the famous actress, certifies: "Ayer's vice to me. It improves and strengthens the voice, and is always effective for the cure of colds and coughs."

"Upon several occasions I have suffered from colds, causing hoarseness and entire loss of voice. In my profession of an auctioneer any affection of the voice or throat is a serious matter, but at each attack, I have been relieved by a few doses of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. This remedy, with ordinary care, has worked such a

that I have suffered very little inconven-ience. I have also used it in my family, with excellent results, in coughs, colds, &c."—

Wm. H. Quartly, Minlaton, Australia.

"In the spring of 1853, at Portsmouth, Va.,
I was prostrated by a severe attack of typhoid pneumonia. My physicians exhausted their remedies, and for one year I was not able to even articulate a word. By the ad-vice of Dr. Shaw I tried Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, and to my surprise and great joy, in less than one month I could converse easily, in a natural tone of voice. I continued to improve and have become since a well man. I have often recommended the Pectoral, and have never known it to fail."—George R.
